

FROM TINSLETOWN TO AUSTIN

Austin A-List features deserving tech startups much the way the Hollywood Black List promotes screenplays needing funding.

THE AUSTIN A-LIST

A List of the Hottest Startups

Greater Austin Chamber of Commerce

Austin is rich with innovative startups worthy of funding in order to make their visions a reality, but limited capital leaves many of them simply waiting to do so. In efforts to increase the visibility of some of Austin's great regional technology startups seeking funding, the Austin Chamber created the Austin A-List.

The Austin A-List is a concept taken from a well-known Hollywood project list started in 2005 named The Black List, which sprouted from Leonardo DiCaprio's film production company, which sought great screenplays in need of producing. Just as the Black List has clearly become the "go to" source for new projects by interested investors and production executives, the Austin A-List hopes to become an easy source for tech startup investors. The Chamber's Tech Partnership called on investors for their shortlist of companies last year for the first annual list. Below is the complete listing, which was released last month.

aDealio
Adlucent
CacheIQ
Clearbrook Imaging
Digby
DocBookMD
ecampus Tutors
Evix
Famigo
FanTrail

GameSalad
Gazaang
Hurricane Party
InfoChimps
Invodo
Karmaback
KLD
Loku (Formerly Borrowed Sugar)
Lumos Pharma
MainStreet Hub
Mass Relevance
Ordoro
Ortho Kinematics
Phunware
Qcue
SmileyMedia
Socialware
Spanning Clouds
SpareFoot
SpineSmith
Spredfast
TabbedOut
Who do you know @
YouData